The Effluent Expo 2018

Background/purpose

The Effluent Expo is now in its seventh year. The Effluent Expo is now being run separate from the Waikato Regional Council who have successfully organized the event in previous years with the help from industry partners.

The Effluent Expo is an industry collaboration, and aims to build upon the success of previous events by providing an opportunity for farmers and rural professionals to engage with industry professionals around effluent management and infrastructure.

The event aims to help farmers to increase their effluent knowledge and have well-managed, fit for purpose effluent systems on their farms.

The Expo's purpose is to provide information to farmers on a range of systems available to ensure full compliance and good management practices. The Expo promotes a collaborative approach to farm effluent management – a one stop event for effluent design, storage, containment, management, and application solutions.

The Expo will be charging a $10 cash only door fee to members of the public on the day or $5 if registered online, this helps to cover costs of printing and other associated materials so that we can keep the costs down for the exhibitors.

Several relevant and interesting seminars will run throughout the two days.

The Effluent Expo is strongly focused on the management of effluent (design, storage, containment and application). Considering the Expo's expansion in recent years, we reserve the right to accept or reject applications for a stand based on the relevance of a business to the Expo and the way in which it contributes to supporting farmers to improve their effluent management.
